WAS GIVEN RAW DEAL
IN WILLIAMSBURGHampton Team Got Only Part of Expense Money From Team
in That City.

THE SCORE WAS TWO TO ONE

And Naturally Hampton Got the Two —Contest Called in the Eighth Inning on Account of the Rain—Hopkins Played a Great Game for Hampton, as Usual.

According to the members of the Hampton Young Men's Christian Association baseball nine the team received a "raw deal" at the hands of the Williamsburg nine in the old colonial capital yesterday.

While the Hamptonians came back with the scalps of the Williamsburgers, the team did not return with the amount of money which had been promised them. Instead of paying the team's expenses of $17.50 the Williamsburg nine, through its manager, Mr. Marable, turned over the sum of $12 to the Hamptonians, and it was necessary for Dr. George McAllister, the manager of the Hampton nine, to miss his train in order to get the twelve. The manager claimed that the Hampton team was not entitled to the expenses because the game was called in the eighth inning on account of rain. It had been agreed, so the Hampton boys say, by the captains of the two nines that the rain was too severe to play in and therefore it was decided to call the contest in the first half of the eighth inning, when Hampton was at the bat, with one man on third and only one man down. This is the feature which caused Williamsburg's manager to refuse to deliver the full expenses of the team to Manager McAllister.

It Was a Great Game.

From the time the contest was on it was a battle royal. The score at the end of the contest being two to one in Hampton's favor. Hopkins, who is the short stop for the Hampton nine, was forced to go in the box, and Cunningham, the catcher, played at short while Fuller wore the liver pad. Hopkins pitched a clever game, striking out nine men, allowing but one man to walk to first and four hits. Hopkins also had two long drives for three-baggers to his credit and succeeded in stopping one or two hot liners which looked good for hits. Hampton had three errors to her credit, while the work of the entire team showed much improvement. Cook played a good game in right field.

For Williamsburg Graves was in the box. He struck out five men and allowed the local nine but five hits. The work of the Williamsburg nine was also admirable. Savage got a drive for three bags. The game was marred by several rather severe decisions by the umpires, both Hampton and Williamsburg claiming that they had gotten the worst of it. Rowe and Spencer did the umpiring.

The Tabulated Score.

As will be seen from a glance at the

MR. LINDSAY ON "THE BENCH."

Councilman From First Ward Occupied Mayor's Bench Yesterday.

Councilman L. E. Lindsay presided over the police court yesterday morning in the absence of Mayor Jones. Councilman Lindsay showed that he is at home when on the bench.

Louisa Laster, of Newport News, frankly admitted that she had been drunk on Friday night. "Two and cost," said Councilman Lindsay.

The case of Priscilla Thornton, who is charged with appropriating for her own use a diamond ring and other valuable articles belonging to Mrs. J. F. Copeland, was continued until tomorrow morning.

KILLING THE SEALS.

Always Done in the Morning, When the Temperature is Lowest.

John Seudder McLain in his "Alaska" thus describes the business of securing seal skins: "The killing is always early in the morning when the temperature is lowest. It was 5 o'clock in the morning when we left the ship. The killing season was practically over, but the agents had arranged a drive for our benefit. The seal lies along the rocky shores, the bulls or 'beachmasters,' as they are called, and the cows and their pups occupying the rocks nearest the water, while the bachelors, the young unmated males, are forced to go farther up the beach. As only the bachelors are killed for their skins, this natural division facilitates the work of the drivers in making their selections. Two or three drivers slip in and cut out, as the cowboys would say, a bunch for the day's killing. They proceed to make a great noise by shouting, slapping pieces of boards together and beating on the cans. The seals are frightened, and the squirming, huddling mass is gradually forced away from the rocky shore.

"Now, here they come, bleating like a flock of sheep, sniffling in their awkward fashion through the tall grass. The younger males and the few females which the drivers will not try to separate from the herd until the killing ground is reached offer no resistance, but the two or three old bulls show fight and rush at the drivers with surprising speed and agility which pressed too hard. As they are driven to the killing grounds their gait is a sort of canter, as they raise themselves on their flippers and pull their heavy bodies up. They repeat this movement rapidly for a hundred yards and then fall, panting and exhausted. The method of killing adopted inflicts less suffering on the victims than any other that could be devised, but one who has witnessed the operation will not wish to see it again.

"Those who do the killing are natives who are expert at the business, each armed with a stout club about five feet long and three inches thick at the heavy end. They cut out twenty or thirty of the struggling creatures and, striking each one on the head, crush the soft, thin skull. Death is instantaneous. As the club falls with a thud upon each graceful head those that have escaped the first crushing blows seem to become conscious of their impending fate and their appealing eyes, soft as those of a deer, their plaintive cries and their ineffectual efforts to escape would certainly stay the arm of any not schooled by years and generations to do this work. The stranger to the scene is forced to turn away, though he must admit that not a throb of conscious pain follows the descent of the heavy club."

He Thought He Stopped the Paper.

An acquaintance met Horace Greeley one day and said, "Mr. Greeley, I've stopped your paper."

"Have you?" said the editor, "Well, that's too bad." And he went his way. The next morning Mr. Greeley met his subscriber again and said, "I thought you had stopped the Tribune?"

"So I did."

"Then there must be some mistake," said Mr. Greeley, "for I just came from the office and the presses were running, the clerks were as busy as ever, the compositors were hard at work, and the business was going on the same as yesterday and the day before."

"Oh," ejaculated the subscriber, "I didn't mean that I had stopped the paper. I stopped only my copy of it because I didn't like your editorials."

"Tshaw!" retorted Mr. Greeley. "It wasn't worth taking up my time to tell me such a trifle as that. My dear sir, if you expect to control the utterance of the Tribune by the purchase of one copy a day or if you think to find any newspaper or magazine worth reading that will never express convictions at right angles with your own you are doomed to disappointment."—Success Magazine.
